OGDEN ELKS HAVE THE OGDEN SPIRIT

Plan the Most Interesting and Attractive Celebration of the Fourth of July Ever Held in This Part of Utah and Proceed to Arrange For Special Trains to Carry the Crowds to Ogden.

The Elks of Ogden are to observe their "Purple day" on July 4, in Ogden canyon. That decision was reached yesterday, and immediately plans were made for one of the greatest celebrations of the Fourth of July ever held in Utah.

The Elks decided, first, to supply sufficient entertainment to keep the people of Ogden at a home resort on that day, and second, to fittingly observe the nation's birth in connection with their own Purple day.

Their plans are elaborate. To begin with there is to be an extensive campaign of advertising so that Elks from all parts of the intermountain country will be drawn here.

When the Elks meet in Provo on June 19, Ogden will be there with a big turn out, a band and boost literature.

Soon a committee of five, with a quartette of singers, is to visit every Elk lodge in the state, to arouse interest in "Purple day" in Ogden canyon.

The boys have started out to prove that Purple day, the Fourth of July and Ogden canyon can be made a combination of attractions beyond compare and they have a committee at work, with W. E. Sanderson at its head, that knows how to do things.

The committee has already made preliminary arrangements to have special trains run to Ogden on the Fourth from Eureka, Provo, Park City, Salt Lake and Brigham.

CARNIVAL WAS PRODUCTIVE OF FIGHTS

J. J. Johnson, charged with disturbing the peace at the carnival grounds on Saturday night, was found guilty by Judge Reeder this morning but sentence was suspended.

According to the testimony of witnesses, Johnson had bet Pellman, a carnival employee, $1 against a glass vase that Johnson could strike a punching machine harder than the employee. Johnson won the bet and took the vase which engendered hard feelings and resulted in a quarrel. During the argument, Johnson struck Pellman on the head with the vase and later was arrested. While held by an officer, Johnson claims Pellman took advantage of his position and struck him.

Pellman had been arrested but put up bail and forfeited it this morning. George Lucas was another young man to get into trouble at the show grounds on Saturday. He was charged before Judge Reeder with using obscene language. According to testimony, the cause of his profanity was a dog fight. He was fined $20.

Roy Horr was given a suspended sentence. Horr had been arrested in company with George Lloyd, who, it is alleged, had been selling drugs to users of morphine and cocaine. Lloyd did not appear and forfeited $10 bail.

A continuance was taken in the case of C. Kooymann, charged with petty larceny. He was arrested Saturday night on complaint of J. F. Stoddard who had lost a harness from his horse, tied in the rear of the stores on Washington avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-third streets.

Kooymann admitted that he had sold the $20 harness for $2.50, but claimed that the harness had been given to him to sell on commission. The judge asked that a man named Wilson be looked for. Kooymann claims that a man by that name gave him the harness.

The case of J. D. Lepper, charged with obtaining from Mrs. P. D. Shupe a sewing machine by fraudulent pretense, was continued until tomorrow morning.

BOTH FINED IN COURT THIS MORNING

The culmination of the disturbance at the carnival grounds last Thursday when George Allen fired a gun in a mixup with William Bramwell, came today when Judge W. H. Reeder imposed a sentence of 90 days or $30 on Allen and a sentence of 25 days or $25 on Bramwell. Allen had pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons and Bramwell had pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace.

Bramwell stated to the Standard today that the quarrel at the show grounds was of long standing, having originated at the shops several weeks ago when he was beaten by Allen while his hands were held. Bramwell also stated that Allen was not a foreman at the shops, and that he, Bramwell, was not discharged but is working there at the present time.

SENDS CHECK TO THE FLYING TRAIL

Ogden automobilists have had a hearty laugh over the invitations sent them by the Midland Trail funds committee, asking for contributions to assist in improving the Midland road. From present indications, the efforts of the committee to secure financial assistance will be a blank for the proposition has been received in Ogden as a joke.

For the part he played in soliciting from Ogden men, Dr. C. A. Wherry, chairman of the funds committee, will receive several excellent examples of satire embodied in letters. He will also receive one check. One of the letters he will receive follows:

"Dr. C. A. Wherry, chairman Midland Trail Funds Committee, Salt Lake, Utah. Dear Sir:

"Answering yours of the 6th instant soliciting aid for the building of the Midland trail, I want to thank you kindly for allowing your many Ogden friends to get in on the ground floor. You know you Salt Lake people are so kind to us here in Ogden because you so often grant us the privilege of raising money for your enterprises. In making my contribution to the building of the Midland trail, it is with the request that you use your influence with the Rotary club in having them also extend me an invitation to help build that automobile road over the top of the mountain from Morgan to Salt Lake City.

"I am inclosing my check for $500, being 1 per cent of the cost of my new 1920 model automobile and flying machine combined. I want also to ask you to use your influence in having the Midland trail adopt this combination, because you know there are many stretches on this alleged road where a trip through the clouds would be a diversion, to say nothing of a timesaver.

"Again thanking you, and again asking you to not forget us when you need money, and still asking you to remember Mr. Botterill makes the trip between Salt Lake and Denver via the Overland Trail on passenger traffic schedule. Yours truly,

(Signed) E. Z. MONEY."
